FINK INTENSIVE is for those who were unable to participate in the spring workshops. If you would like to (re)design a course using Fink's taxonomy of significant learning and ideas on integrated course design, this series is for you. Each session will introduce a set of concepts needed to design your course, and provide some individual and group work time. Each session builds on the last, and may require additional time outside of the workshop session to prepare for the next day's session. All four sessions are needed to complete the series.
